† Original notice of the question was received in Hindi.

THE MINISTER OF RAILWAYS (SHRI LALU PRASAD): (a) To improve the standard of cleanliness at railway stations, steps like introduction of mechanised cleaning, provision of washable aprons, provision of 'Pay & Use' toilets, cleanliness awareness campaigns etc. have been undertaken. Regular inspections are conducted by various officials at the railway stations to monitor cleanliness and also to identify weak areas and take remedial measures. Drives are launched from time to time particularly during rush seasons to have greater impact.

Indian Railways have more than 8000 railway stations. All the stations have been provided with minimum essential amenities as per norms and according to the category of stations. Maintenance and further development of amenities is a continuous process and is carried out regularly.

(b) The best maintained stations in different categories with respect to upkeep of passenger amenities and cleanliness are rewarded annually by the zonal railways.

(c) and (d) There is a system of periodic inspections by multi-disciplinary Service Improvement Groups (SIGs) of appropriate level to monitor the upkeep of amenities and cleanliness and take immediate corrective action. Suitable action is taken against the staff found wanting in performance of their duties for maintenance of passenger amenities at railway stations.
